James P. Anglin, Ph.D
School of Child and Youth Care
University of Victoria, BC, Canada

Brief Biography

Jim Anglin began his career as a child and youth care worker in a mental health centre in Vancouver after which he moved to Victoria and began a 6-bed group home for four boys and two girls who were experiencing a variety of distresses in their lives. Following these front-line work experiences he pursued graduate studies and then spent two years in social policy work in Ottawa and two years as a Senior Project Coordinator with the Children's Services Division in Toronto. Returning to B.C. in 1979, he joined the faculty of the School of Child and Youth Care at the University of Victoria where he is a full Professor and former Director.

His recent research interests have focused on a re-appreciation of residential care for youth and his latest book is titled "Pain, Normality and the Struggle for Congruence: Reinterpreting Residential Care for Children and Youth" (Haworth, 2002). He has published in North American and international journals and child welfare texts on a variety of child and youth care issues in addition to residential care, including professionalization, quality assurance and standards, parent education and support, and international initiatives. He is on the editorial boards of the Child and Youth Care Forum, Child and Youth Services, International Journal of Child and Family Welfare, and Reclaiming Youth at Risk. He was coordinating editor for the text Perspectives in Professional Child and Youth Care (Haworth, 1990).
